All-time: Kentucky leads the all-time series 49-45-4 (Wikipedia, citing College Football Data Warehouse); Winsipedia lists 48-45-4 with one win vacated (Kentucky vacated its 2021 wins in August 2024, per Wikipedia). First meeting: Oct. 10, 1896 in Nashville, Vanderbilt 6-0 (Wikipedia). Vanderbilt has won two straight and three of the last four (Winsipedia; AP), and has won the last two meetings in Lexington, 24-21 in 2022 and 20-13 in 2024 (ESPN). Kentucky's 53-2 win in 1978 is the series' largest margin; 41 of 98 games have been decided by 7 points or fewer (Wikipedia). The schools are about 181 miles apart, and Wikipedia calls it Kentucky's second-longest rivalry, behind Tennessee (Wikipedia).

Last year, November 22, 2025 at FirstBank Stadium, Nashville — Vanderbilt 45, Kentucky 17. Diego Pavia threw for a school-record 484 yards and five touchdowns, topping Whit Taylor's 464 at Tennessee in 1981, and ran for a sixth score as No. 12 Vanderbilt routed Kentucky on Senior Day (AP via ESPN). Tre Richardson caught six passes for 159 yards and three TDs, including a 71-yarder for a 10-0 lead early in the second quarter, and Vanderbilt outgained Kentucky 604 yards to 315 (AP; ESPN box score). Martel Hight had two of Vanderbilt's three interceptions, and Junior Sherrill added 8 catches for 115 yards and a TD (AP; ESPN box score). The win completed Vanderbilt's first unbeaten home schedule since 1982 and snapped Kentucky's three-game winning streak, dropping the Wildcats to 5-6 (AP via ESPN). Mark Stoops, Kentucky's coach then, called it discouraging; Cutter Boley threw for 280 yards and two late TDs for UK (AP; ESPN box score).
